

The way we speak is a physical process governed by speech organs which can be trained or reprogrammed by working through a series of specific drills, including mouth positioning, intonation, breathing and listening exercises. Mastering English Pronunciation is an accent reduction program tailored to the needs of individuals and corporations. Participants learn accent reduction techniques for vowels, consonants, and patterns of rhythm, stress and intonation, as well as voice projection and rate of speech.

The course is ideal for fluent non-native English speakers who wish to improve their English/ American pronunciation and soften their accent, or who want to learn techniques to develop a more powerful and engaging voice.

Program structure, duration and outcomes

- Learn in small groups with colleagues
- Typically 12 hours of instruction
- 1 or 2-day introductory course
- Learn General American or R.P. phonetic features
- Average rate of improvement of 70%
- Increased confidence when speaking
- Enhanced ability to self-correct

Instructor: David Dal Brun - A Fulbright scholar, linguist and vocal coach. He specializes in applied linguistics and dialect coaching techniques and brings a new approach to the development of speakers, singers and individuals from all walks of life.